

7} The number of matches without a victory in T20 internationals for India. This is by far the worst phase in its T20I history. Previously, the team had been winless in four consecutive games on two occasions: in 2009 and 2021. Among the top eight cricketing nations, Sri Lanka, New Zealand, Pakistan and the West Indies have been in this situation before, and now India has joined these four sides as shown in the second table below.

India's consecutive T20I games without recording a win

11.4} The number of overs faced by Indian batters during their paltry total of 76 against England in Trent Bridge on 7 July 2026. This is the fewest number of overs faced by India before being dismissed in a T20I match. Incidentally, these are also the fourth-fewest number of overs faced by any ICC full-member side, after Bangladesh, England, and Ireland, as listed in the second table below.

Shortest all-out innings for India in T20Is (i.e. dismissed in fewest number of overs)

Overs	Totals for India	Opponents (total)	Venue	Date	Inns	Result for India
11.4	76-10	England (201-7)	Nottingham	7 Jul 2026	2	Lost by 125 runs
17.2	92-10	South Africa (96-4)	Cuttack (NS)	5 Oct 2015	1	Lost by 6 wkts (17 balls to spare)

+ 11 overs-a-side game
The overall dubious record in T20I cricket is currently held by Rwanda during its innings of 24-10 in 6.1 overs against Nigeria in Lagos on 14 Oct 2023.

9} The number of bilateral T20I series defeats for India (of two or more games). This is England's first bilateral series victory over India in a T20I series of two or more games after losing five consecutive series since January 2017. This is also the second time India has conceded back-to-back series defeats to opponents after its first in February 2019 to New Zealand and Australia. Also, this 0-4 defeat against England is India's biggest in a T20I bilateral series.
