

Bright spark: N. Shree Charani was the standout performer in an otherwise disappointing campaign for India, finishing as the tournament's leading bowler with 14 wickets and rising to No. 1 in the ICC T20I bowling rankings.

come up with some big shots. The team was unlucky that the seam-bowling all-rounder Amanjot Kaur had to miss out because of injury.

N. Shree Charani was India's brightest star in the tournament. She emerged as the leading bowler, with 14 wickets. During the course of the World Cup, she became the No. 1 bowler in T20Is in the ICC ranking.

There were also some heartwarming performances from the lesser teams, such as Ireland, Scotland and the Netherlands, the last of which was making its debut.

The turnouts were excellent, too, with attendance records broken multiple times during the course of the tournament. That, too, at the time of the football World Cup in North America. With England playing, football was very much the talking point in the country.

The Women's T20 World Cup still managed to make its presence felt.

1225

Days between Australia's Women's T20 World Cup triumphs in 2023 and 2026. Since 2010, the only longer gap between two Australian World Cup titles was 1693 days, between the T20 World Cup wins in 2014 and 2018.

151

The target chased down by Australia against England at Lord's, the highest in a Women's T20 World Cup final. The previous record was 149, chased by West Indies against Australia in 2016.