

2

David Warner has admitted to a mid-range drink-driving charge stemming from an incident in Sydney on April 5. The former Australia opener tested positive in a roadside breath test before a secondary test at a police station found his blood alcohol level to be more than twice the legal limit. Warner, who did not appear in Waverley Local Court, will be sentenced on August 18. His lawyer, Bobby Hill, said Warner accepted his actions were "reckless" and "foolish". The incident could also cast doubt over Warner's captaincy of Sydney Thunder.

3

The first-ever Mixed Disability Ashes will be staged in 2027, with Australia's Men's Mixed Disability team set to tour England for a T20I series, marking another significant milestone in the growth of disability cricket. The inaugural series, with dates and venues yet to be confirmed, will see England and Australia contest the Ashes in the mixed disability format for the first time. The series will be part of England's 2027 Ashes summer, which will also feature the men's and women's Ashes contests. The announcement follows the expansion of mixed disability cricket in recent years, with England having already played series against India and another scheduled for this summer.

4

Sunil Narine (in pic) and Jason Holder combined to dismantle Washington Freedom and power LA Knight Riders to its maiden Major League Cricket title at the Oakland Coliseum. The veteran duo led a dominant bowling display that ended the brief duopoly of MI New York and Washington Freedom. Obus Pienaar's blistering 24-ball 53 threatened a stunning comeback, but LAKR held its nerve to seal the title.

5

Shimron Hetmyer produced a composed unbeaten 69 off 64 balls to steer West Indies to a consolation victory over New Zealand in the fifth and final ODI, although the visitor clinched the series 3-2. With the chase wobbling after early setbacks, Hetmyer and Sherfane Rutherford (61 off 58) stitched together a decisive 95-run stand for the fifth wicket after New Zealand had posted 268/9, ensuring the host finished the series on a winning note.