

26 seconds left a question. Now comes the answer

UFC 331 gives Joshua Van and Alexandre Pantoja a chance to settle their unfinished business, nine months after their first fight ended in just 26 seconds.

Nigamanth P
nigamanth.p@thehindu.co.in

For nine months, the UFC (Ultimate Fighting Championship) flyweight division has been left with one unanswered question: who is actually better, Joshua Van or Alexandre Pantoja?

Their first meeting lasted just 26 seconds.

Pantoja's elbow injury ended the fight almost as soon as it began, handing Van the UFC flyweight title but leaving neither fighter with the satisfaction of proving his superiority inside

