The phrase 'nothing in life can be taken for granted' will be ringing in the ears of the Bayern Munich players after they were surprisingly held to a stalemate by fallen giant FC Schalke 04. The Bavarians opened their German league season by thrashing VfB Stuttgart 5-1, and head coach Vincent Kompany may have expected promoted Schalke to be easy pickings, only for goalkeeper Loris Karius to produce a performance for the ages. The former Liverpool custodian made five saves, including a stunning stop to deny Harry Kane from long range in the closing stages of the match, bringing an end to Bayern's 59-game streak of scoring at least once. Borussia Dortmund, meanwhile, had to dig deep against Hoffenheim, coming back from two goals down to win 3-2. Leon Avdullahu and Tim Lemberle gave the home side a healthy lead before Serhou Guirassy got his second goal of the season to initiate the fightback just after the hour mark. Fabio Silva levelled the game five minutes later before Albion Hajdari bundled the ball into the back of his own net with four minutes of regulation time left.

The result means Dortmund joins FC Augsburg, SC Freiburg and league debutant SV Elversberg as the teams with a perfect start to the season.

It was pure cinema when the last two winners of the Scudetto — Inter Milan and Napoli — faced off for the first time this season. Played in a packed San Siro, the match remained balanced until the start of the second half, before three goals were scored in a six-minute blitz. Matteo Politano and Rasmus Højlund put the side from Naples in the driving seat, but Lautaro Martinez halved the deficit from close range in quick time.

What followed was sustained pressure on the Napoli goal, and Inter was rewarded through Marcus Thuram's header before Martinez poked the ball into the goal in the first minute of added time. Inter joins Roma as the only side with three wins in as many games, with the latter staging a late comeback as well, against Atalanta. Ederson's early second-half strike seemed like it would be the point of difference, but Mario Hermoso's header and Matias Soule's added-time effort helped Roma secure all three precious points. Meanwhile, AC Milan and Juventus had the chance to join Inter and Roma as teams with unblemished starts to the season, but ended up settling for a 1-1 draw. Teenager Alphadjo Cisse bagged Milan's first league goal against Juventus in over three years but had his party spoiled by a stoppage-time header from Federico Gatti.

Paris Saint-Germain has gone without a win in its opening three league games of a season for the first time since the 2012-13 campaign, and its latest blow was handed by potential title challenger AS Monaco. Unlike in its previous two fixtures, the two-time reigning European champion managed to take the lead for the first time this season through captain Marquinhos, who met Khvicha Kvaratskhelia's cross at the right place at the right time. But some below-par finishing from the record French champion allowed its opponent to come back into the game, with Flavio Nazinho bagging the equaliser before Stanis Idumbo's thumping effort from close range was let in by PSG goalkeeper Matvey Safonov at his near post. The victory propelled Monaco to the top of the standings with a perfect haul of nine points, while PSG lingers in an unfamiliar 13th place with just two points in three games.
