

« I'm terrible at predicting what can go wrong, but I can tell you this: I don't know how the tournament will pan out. For now, it's about making sure we have a fit playing XI come March 29. — Abhishek Nayar, KKR head coach »

SQUAD

Wicketkeepers

Finn Allen, Tim Seifert, Tejasvi Singh

Batters

Ajinkya Rahane, Rinku Singh, Angkrish Raghuvanshi, Manish Pandey, Rahul Tripathi

All-rounders

Cameron Green, Sunil Narine, Rovman Powell, Rachin Ravindra, Ramandeep Singh, Anukul Roy, Sarthak Ranjan, Daksh Kamra

Bowlers

Varun Chakaravathy, Matheesha Pathirana, Harshit Rana, Saurabh Dubey, Umran Malik, Vaibhav Arora, Blessing Muzarabani, Kartik Tyagi, Prashant Solanki

A TALE OF TWO HALVES

Pranay Rajiv

pranay.rajiv@thehindu.co.in

MIDDLE-OVERS STAGNATION

7.05

Lowest run rate in overs 7-14 in IPL 2025

The post-PowerPlay phase proved a major stumbling block for Kolkata Knight Riders last season. From overs seven to 14, the side scored at just 7.05 runs per over, comfortably the lowest in the league.

Spinners consistently tied down KKR's middle order, which recorded the second-lowest strike rate against spin, behind Chennai Super Kings. The addition of Cameron Green is expected to address this imbalance, offering both stability and acceleration in the middle overs.

SPIN STRENGTH

7.63

Best spin economy rate in IPL 2025

If batting against spin was a weakness, bowling with it was a strength. In Varun Chakaravathy and Sunil Narine, KKR arguably possess the most potent spin combination in the league.

The side's spinners conceded just 7.63 runs per over, the best among all teams last season. The duo's contrasting styles continue to give KKR control through the middle overs.

PLAYER TO WATCH

Finn Allen's ability to dominate the PowerPlay could reshape KKR's batting template. If he provides rapid starts, it could ease pressure on a middle order that struggled against spin last season.