If you happen to meet Sneh Rana and strike up a conversation about cricket and life, her one-line pieces of advice may seem casual at first. But for Sneh, those words carry weight and have a way of manifesting into reality. The off-spinner returned to the Indian women's team set-up last April after a gap of two years, and her terrific run culminated in the team lifting its maiden ODI World Cup on home soil.

Having collected the National team of the Year trophy at the Sportstar ACES Awards 2026, alongside teammate Deepti Sharma and bowling coach Aavishkar Salvi, Sneh sat down for a chat on life after the historic triumph and her evolution as a player.

What has changed for you in terms of visibility post the World Cup win?

People used to say that girls should not be given brand deals. I think that has changed a lot.

Moreover, wherever we go, people easily recognise
