

and Aleksandr Golovin and Folarin Balogun added to the scoresheet while Bradley Barcola scored a consolation goal for the Parisians.

Serie A

AC Milan revived its title challenge after beating Inter Milan 1-0 for the second time this season. Pervis Estupinan's first-half strike was enough to secure the win as Milan completed the league double over its fierce city rival for the first time since the 2010-11 season.

Despite its first loss in 16 league games, Inter has a seven-point lead at the top of the standings while Milan sits second with 60 points from 28 games.

Napoli strengthened its bid for a Champions League spot with a hard-fought 2-1 win against Torino, maintaining its unbeaten status at home this campaign. Alisson Santos's early strike and Eljif Elmas' second-half volley were enough to take all three points in a game that saw Kevin De Bruyne make his first appearance for Napoli since October after undergoing surgery for a hamstring injury.

The result leaves the title holder third in the standings with 56 points, five ahead of Como and Roma in fourth and fifth respectively.

Copa del Rey

After Atletico Madrid hammered Barcelona 4-0 in their Copa del Rey semifinal first leg, many still believed the tie was far from over. Barca's remontada against PSG in the Champions League, where it overcame a similar deficit, was still fresh in memory and instilled hope in the Blaugrana. However, on the night, for Barcelona, a comeback ended up being just a hair's breadth away. Hansi Flick's men dominated proceedings and a Marc Bernal brace on either side of halftime, and a Raphinha penalty, was all they could manage as a resilient Atletico held on to reach the summit clash for the first time since 2013.

Diego Simeone's men will take on Real Sociedad for the trophy after it beat Basque rival Athletic Bilbao 2-0 on aggregate.
