Celebratory ton: England's Danni Wyatt-Hodge joined the elite list of Women's T20 World Cup centurions with a brilliant hundred against Sri Lanka at Edgbaston. Her knock powered England to the highest total in tournament history and an emphatic 87-run win in the opener. She marked the milestone with a rocking-the-baby celebration for her newborn daughter, Daisy. REUTERS

Historic moment: Scotland, featuring in only its second T20 World Cup, thumped Ireland by 40 runs in Manchester to register its maiden win in the tournament. The Bryce sisters, skipper Kathryn Bryce (left in pic) and Sarah Bryce, along with Kirstie Gordon (right), one of only two players to have represented two nations at the tournament, were instrumental in securing the historic victory.
