

Sharp strokes: New Zealand won a second game on the trot with Izzy Sharp leading the 132-run chase against Scotland with a 43-ball 62 at the Bristol County Ground. For the Scots, this was their third loss in a row. GETTYIMAGES

Who else but her?: Sri Lanka captain Chamari Athapaththu reminded onlookers of her devastating shot-making as she notched up her first-ever T20 World Cup century. The southpaw brought up her ton in 58 balls and remained unbeaten on 106. Her knock got the Lankans over the line to a nine-wicket win at the Bristol County Ground against Ireland. GETTYIMAGES

Unplayable: Georgia Wareham of Australia celebrates the wicket of Iram Javed of Pakistan. The Aussies steamrolled Pakistan en route to a 113-run win, the joint-second largest victory margin in the history of the T20 showpiece. Heated Hayley: West Indies captain Hayley Matthews is seen remonstrating with the umpires during the match against England. The batter was left furious after being given out caught behind on review for 14 in the fourth over. UltraEdge showed a spike despite a visible gap between bat and ball, prompting Matthews to argue with the umpire before eventually accepting the decision. England went on to win the match by 38 runs at Lord's and seal its place in the semifinals. GETTYIMAGES
