KYLIAN MBAPPE

Kylian Mbappe rubbed shoulders with greatness in his very first World Cup, scoring in a final – Pele was the only other teenager to do so – and then reached the summit of courage when he struck a hat-trick to drag the 2022 final right down to the wire.

Mbappe remains just two short of becoming his country's leading goalscorer, and he is just 27, which paves the way for another occasion for him to take the world, rather the World Cup, by storm.

The dazzling Frenchman may have broken several records, with Paris Saint-Germain previously and now with Real Madrid, but he has been a different beast on the World Cup stage: two editions, two finals, one trophy. Over the years, he has grown from being a lightning-fast and effective forward to a goalscorer who carries the weight of the nation.
