« Queen's Club feels like the perfect place to begin this next chapter. Grass has given me some of the most meaningful moments of my career, and I'm excited to be back. – Serena Williams on her comeback at the age of 44 »

« Johannes, a good friend of mine, came by for lunch, and we were talking about how we were both struggling with memory these days, and that we're getting old and so on. – Magnus Carlsen in the midst of his Norway Chess game against Wesley So – a contest that ended in his defeat »

Double Olympic medallist Fred Kerley ran 100 metres in a pedestrian 9.97 seconds to win the controversial Enhanced Games. Kerley, who predicted that Usain Bolt's world record of 9.58s would get "destroyed", ran a time that would have placed him last at the Paris Olympics two years ago, where he actually won a bronze medal. The only athlete to break a world record over the four hours of swimming, weightlifting and track was Kristian Gkolomeev, who closed the night by swimming the 50-metre free in 20.81 seconds.

That record won't go into the books, however, because the Enhanced Games, true to its name, allows performance enhancing drugs that are banned in mainstream sports.

Los Angeles 2028 organisers unveiled the Paralympic competition schedule, promising the largest edition of the Games and a record programme across 14 days of competition. The LA28 Paralympics, the first to be staged in Los Angeles, will feature 560 medal events across 23 sports, with more than 1,100 hours of competition at nearly 20 venues in seven zones around the region, organisers said.
