

» PREVIEW WOMEN'S T20 WORLD CUP

No smooth sailing: The 12-team tournament has India placed in a 'group of death' alongside Australia, South Africa, Bangladesh, and Pakistan. PICS: GETTY IMAGES

Summer of reckoning

A stronger, wiser India seeks to complete its white-ball trophy collection amid an increasingly competitive field at the Women's T20 World Cup.

Lavanya Lakshmi Narayanan lavanya.ln@thehindu.co.in

FOR MORE STORIES

It is quite ironic when a team's most enduring mode of existence is instability. As cricketing action moves to the British Isles for a month for the Women's T20 World Cup, the narrative around the Indian outfit challenging for the title continues to carry a big question mark in bold red next to its name.

The 12-team tournament has India placed in a 'group of death' alongside Australia, South Africa, Bangladesh, and Pakistan. Going by form, there is likely to be an upset given the three-way fight for the top two spots in this group.

In the 2024 edition held in the UAE, India went in all guns blazing, only to suffer a morale-crushing defeat to New Zealand in the opening game, which set the wheels in motion for an eventual group-stage exit.

The side didn't need opponents to chip away at confidence. Unresolved line-up issues,