

10th

Art of deception: Hungarian forward Nandor Hidegkuti (second from right) scores against West Germany in an 8-3 win in a first-round match. This Hungarian side is often regarded as one of the greatest teams never to have won a World Cup. With Hidegkuti dropping deeper as the False 9, attackers Ferenc Puskas and Sandor Kocsis exploited space up front to wreak havoc. The team also beat South Korea, Brazil and Uruguay before faltering in the final. AFP

SWITZERLAND

1954

11th

Sealed in one shot: Hungarian goalkeeper Gyula Grosics watches as Helmut Rahn's 84th-minute strike for Germany flies past him in the World Cup final. Germany won 3-2. THE HINDU PHOTO LIBRARY