

« The concept is very simple; there should be a very clear understanding and philosophy that the country an athlete starts their career in is the country that they finish their career in. – World Athletics president Sebastian Coe says he will remain “tough” on the issue of athletes switching nationality »

« To be honest, I still wish I could continue my playing career. Even so, looking back on everything up to this point, I can proudly say that I gave it my all. – Kei Nishikori, the first Japanese player to reach a Grand Slam final at the 2014 US Open, will retire at the end of the season after a career ravaged by injury »

54.33

American Gretchen Walsh lowered the 100m butterfly world record again, winning in 54.33 seconds at the Fort Lauderdale Open. Walsh sliced 27-hundredths of a second off the previous world record of 54.60 she set in the same Florida pool at a Pro Swim meeting last May.

4x100m

Jamaica broke the mixed relay world record twice in as many days during the World Athletics Relays 2026. Ackeem Blake, Tina Clayton, Kadrian Goldson and Tia Clayton raced to victory in a dominant 39.62s to win the event. The Jamaican quartet had become the first team to dip under 40 seconds when clocking an initial world best of 39.99s during the heats.

CREATING HISTORY

Kenya's Sabastian Sawa broke the two-hour mark for the first time in history in winning the London Marathon. The defending champion was locked in a tight battle with Ethiopia's Yomif Kejelcha in the closing stages but surged clear to cross the line in 1:59:30. Kejelcha also dipped under two hours, with a time of 1:59:41, with Uganda's Jacob Kiplomo third (2:00:28). Ethiopia's Tigst Assefa defended her crown, breaking her own women's-only world record to clock 2:15:41. Kenya's Hellen Obiri came second with 2:15:53 and finished just two-hundredths of a second ahead of compatriot Joyciline Jepkosgei. AFP
