

» FROM THE
WORLD OF FOOTBALL

Last gasp: Getting on the end of an excellent cross by Bruno Fernandes, Harry Maguire (second from right) towered over everyone to guide the ball home and pocket three points for Manchester United. AP

Red Devils end Anfield hoodoo

Over 3,500 days later, Manchester United shock Liverpool 2-1 as Harry Maguire seals victory with a dramatic late goal.

Aneesh Dey and Joan Mathew Jacob aneesh.dey@thehindu.co.in, joan.mathew@thehindu.co.in

FOR MORE STORIES

January 17, 2016. Wayne Rooney scored in the 78th minute to give Manchester United a 1-0 win against arch-rival Liverpool. After that, Liverpool went on to win the league twice, while United has continued its wait for its first Premier League crown since 2013.

Ahead of Liverpool's home match against United in the Premier League on October 20, all signs pointed towards Arne Slot's men beating Manchester United and keeping the streak going.

However, the recent Premier League gameweek saw one of the biggest surprises. 3,564 days after its last win at Anfield, Manchester United did it again. Ruben Amorim's men beat Liverpool 2-1 in what can be called an upset, given both the team's