likes of Scott McTominay and Rasmus Hojlund, lost 0-1 against Torino. Como beat Juventus 2-0, piling on the frustration for Igor Tudor's side that had come into the match after playing out five successive draws in all competitions.

Inter Milan earned a hard-fought 1-0 victory at AS Roma. The result denied Roma the chance to take the outright lead at the top of the table, instead leaving it level on 15 points with Inter and Napoli at the summit.

AC Milan, however, did not squander its opportunity. Rafael Leao starred with a brace as the Italian giant beat Fiorentina 2-1 to go to top of the table.

After matchday 7, AC Milan leads the Scudetto race with 16 points. Inter, Napoli, and Roma, all on 15 points, are second, third, and fourth, separated by goal difference.

Ligue 1

Paris Saint-Germain's return from international football faced a major challenge as the European champion was held to a thrilling 3-3 draw by RC Strasbourg. The Parisians had to come back from two goals down to deny their opponent a first league win in 34 games in Paris. Olympique de Marseille welcomed the defending champion dropping points with open arms, and took the top spot after thrashing Le Havre 6-2. Former United player Mason Greenwood bagged four of those, propelling himself to second in the top scorer standings with six, one behind Strasbourg's Joaquín Panichelli.

Olympique Lyonnais, on the other hand, wasted an opportunity to go joint top of the table, losing 2-3 to OGC Nice. At the end of matchday 8, Marseille leads with 18 points, one ahead of PSG in second, while Strasbourg and RC Lens assume third and fourth spots respectively with 16 points each.

International

Among the stories of the October international window, the tale of one of the smallest nations rose above the rest. During the course of the two weeks, Cape Verde, an island nation in the central Atlantic Ocean off the west coast of West Africa, secured its first-ever qualification for the FIFA World Cup.

What makes it all the more remarkable is that with a population of just over five lakh, it became the second smallest nation to play in the global showpiece, second only to
