La Liga

Real Madrid failed to catch a break in its current league campaign. After frustrating draws against Rayo Vallecano and Elche, Xabi Alonso's men were once again held to a 1-1 stalemate against Girona. Azzedine Ounahi opened the scoring for Girona in the 45th minute, which was cancelled out by a second-half penalty from Kylian Mbappe (below), who took his league goal tally to 14.

Defending champion Barcelona had a difficult start against Alaves after the visitor opened the scoring in the first minute through Pablo Ibanez. However, Lamine Yamal equalised after seven minutes, followed by a brace from Dani Olmo to guide the Catalans to a 3-1 win.

Atletico Madrid rode an Alexander Sorloth brace to take all three points against Oviedo.

Villarreal maintained its impressive league form with a 3-2 win against Real Sociedad, while the other Basque club, Athletic Bilbao, had a good week, winning 2-0 against Levante. After matchday 14, Barcelona (34) claimed top spot, with Real Madrid (33) dropping to second. Villarreal (32) and Atletico (31) sit third and fourth, respectively.

Ligue 1

The French top flight has a new leader in RC Lens, which capitalised on defending champion Paris Saint-Germain's shock loss to AS Monaco. Florian Thauvin's brace was enough for Lens to seal a 2-1 victory against Angers and climb to the top of the standings with 31 points, one ahead of PSG.

PSG, meanwhile, suffered only its second defeat of the league season. Former Liverpool player Takumi Minamino scored the only goal as Monaco snapped a three-match losing streak, in a game that also saw Paul Pogba make his second appearance since returning from a doping ban. He had earlier returned to the pitch for the first time in more than two years in Monaco's 4-1 defeat to Rennes in the previous gameweek. Unlike Lens, Olympique de Marseille failed to capitalise on PSG dropping points as it was held to a 2-2 draw by Toulouse. The result leaves Roberto De Zerbi's side third in the table, two points off the leader.

UEFA Champions League

European giants Arsenal and Bayern Munich have undeniably been the best teams in the Champions League this season. With their perfect records at stake, their matchup was destined to take centre stage in the fifth gameweek. The Gunners came into the match with a glittering record of having conceded zero goals in the campaign, while the Bavarians were unbeaten across all competitions (18 games). With both teams more or less confirmed to finish in the top eight, a win was more about making a statement than merely chasing points.

And on the night at the Emirates, it was the home side that held bragging rights, beating Bayern 3-1 courtesy of a dominant second-half display. Arsenal's set-piece prowess was on show as Jurrien Timber headed it in front just over 20 minutes into the first half before 17-year-old Lennart Karl bagged the equaliser for Bayern.

Arsenal flexed its squad depth in the second half, with substitute Noni Madueke firing it back ahead with his first goal since leaving Chelsea, before Gabriel Martinelli capitalised on Manuel Neuer's mistake to seal the game. Meanwhile, Inter Milan, the only other side with a perfect record coming into the gameweek, also saw its run end as it was edged 2-1 by Atletico Madrid.

Another marquee fixture of the gameweek was Barcelona's visit to Chelsea. While many may have assumed the Catalans would dominate, it was the Blues that turned up, thrashing their Spanish opponents 3-0. Jules Kounde's own goal and a red card for Ronald Araujo in the first half helped the home side seize control before second-half goals from youngsters Estevao and Liam Delap put the tie to bed. Notably, the last two Premier League champions, Liverpool and Manchester City, suffered shock defeats at the hands of PSV Eindhoven and Bayer Leverkusen, respectively, leaving both English clubs outside the top eight after five games.

Mbappe simply could not stop scoring as he put four past Olympiacos to secure a 4-3 win in a match where Los Blancos went behind in the eighth minute. Mbappe then took matters into his own hands, bagging a hat-trick inside seven minutes before adding a fourth in the second half. At the
