

23 } The number of innings Pratika Rawal needed to reach 1000 ODI runs, on 23 October 2025 during the World Cup match against New Zealand in Navi Mumbai. She equalled the record held by former Australian batter Lindsay Reeler. However, Rawal reached her milestone in fewer days since her debut — in just 305 days. She became the first woman ODI cricketer to reach 1000 runs in less than a year. The two tables below provide the details.

Quickest to reach 1000 career runs in Women's ODIs (number of innings)

Inns	M	Batter (For)	Achieved on	Runs	Ave.	100/50	HS	Age
23	23	Lindsay Reeler (Aus)	18 Dec 1988	1034	57.44	2/8	143*	27y-275d

Note: In men's ODIs, only Pakistan's Yasir Hameed (242 days) took fewer days than Rawat to reach his 1000th ODI run in January 2004.

10 } The number of bowlers in Women's ODIs to claim 150 or more wickets. India's star all-rounder Deepti Sharma became the latest to join this special group during her World Cup game against England in Indore on 19 October 2025, when she claimed the wicket of Tammy Beaumont. In terms of matches, Deepti Sharma (117) is the fourth quickest after Australian Cathryn Fitzpatrick (91), South African Shabnin Ismail (105) and Aussie Ellyse Perry (109). However, she is the fastest in terms of days (3979 days) and also the youngest (28y-56d) among the 10 players with 150-plus ODI wickets.

4 } The number of all-rounders to achieve the double of 200+ runs and 12+ wickets in a single edition of the Women's World Cup. India's Deepti Sharma and South Africa's Marizanne Kapp achieved this rare feat in the current edition of the Women's World Cup, having done so in previous editions of the tournament, too. However, Deepti's achievement in this year's tournament is unique, as she is now the only female player to aggregate 200-plus runs and take more than 15 wickets.

All-rounder's double of 200+ runs and 12+ wkts in a single edition of the Women's World Cup

Player (For)	(For)	Year	(venue)	M	Runs	Wkts	Title winner
Deepti Sharma	(Ind)	2025	(in Ind/SL)	9	215	22	India
Sharon Trede	(Aus)	1982	(in NZ)	13	239	13	Australia
Carole Hodges	(Eng)	1988	(in Aus)	9	336	12	Australia
