Vedic & Ancient Times

Kabaddi, celebrated as a game of spirit since the Mahabharata and Buddha era, was originally played in loincloths or dhotis.

1936

Berlin Olympics

For the first time, India's traditional sport enters the global stage with its Olympic debut, marked by formalization and the adoption of simple cotton uniforms.

The TechnoSport Era

As the official kit partner of Dabang Delhi, TechnoSport redefines Kabaddi attire with next-gen activewear technology: UPF50+ sun protection, moisture-wicking fabric, 4-way stretch, and antibacterial comfort.

1980-1990

Asian Games

The 1980 Asian Championship set the tone, and India's 1990 Gold in Beijing gave Kabaddi international legitimacy. Standardized team uniforms with colours and numbers emerged then, though materials remained basic.
