

Top shot: Portugal overcame an inspired Denmark to win 5-3 on aggregate, with Cristiano Ronaldo scoring his 136th goal for country. AFP

The Spaniards will face former champion France in the semis after it also kept its cool in a penalty shootout against an ageing Croatia side.

In-form Ousmane Dembele and Michael Olise scored in the second half for Les Bleus to nullify Croatia's two-goal advantage from the first leg and take it to sudden death.

French goalkeeper Mike Maignan produced two saves, and Dayot Upamecano converted the winning penalty under pressure to send France through.

At the other end of the bracket, inaugural season winners Portugal showed resilience to overcome an inspiring challenge from Denmark and beat them 5-3 on aggregate.

After losing the first leg 0-1, Portugal looked much improved in the second fixture, despite all-time top scorer Cristiano Ronaldo missing from the spot in the fourth minute. He made amends later in the game, scoring his 136th international goal before Francisco Trincao came off the bench to score a brace and seal a semifinal berth.

Portugal will face Germany in the final-four clash after the latter survived a late surge from Italy to secure a 5-4 victory on aggregate.

Coming into the second leg with a one-goal advantage, Germany took

« Thomas Tuchel made a positive start to his new role as England manager, as it beat Albania 2-0 in the FIFA World Cup 2026 qualifiers »