

» WORLD VIEW OF THE FORTNIGHT

« A special thank you to my brother, who, rather than being here, is in Imola to watch Formula 1 – Jannik Sinner joked after losing the Italian Open final to Carlos Alcaraz »

« I think it is a huge success and hugely inspiring, not just for women in chess, but for women in sports overall – Chinese Grandmaster Ju Wenjun, heaping praise on Norway Chess, which became the first-ever tournament to offer female players equal prize money »

3

World number one Scottie Scheffler claimed his third major title by outclassing Spain's Jon Rahm in the final round of the PGA Championship. Scheffler, the 2022 and 2024 Masters champion, became the 10th consecutive American to win the event. The win marked his 15th PGA Tour title, achieved in just three years and 94 days—faster than all but Jack Nicklaus and Tiger Woods.

2-1/2

Norwegian prosecutors are seeking a two-and-a-half-year prison sentence for Gjert Ingebrigtsen, who is accused of abusing his two-time Olympic gold medallist son Jakob Ingebrigtsen and daughter Ingrid, the country's media reported. The back-to-back 5,000 metres world champion took the stand in March, where he described a childhood marked by fear and manipulation and told the court about several incidents of violence.

DOUBLE DELIGHT

Jasmine Paolini (left) became the first woman since Monica Seles in 1990 to win the Italian Open singles and doubles titles when she and Sara Errani (right) beat Veronika Kudermetova and Elise Mertens 6-4, 7-5. Prior to winning the doubles, Paolini became the first Italian woman to win the Rome singles title since Raffaella Reggi in 1985 after overcoming former U.S. Open champion Coco Gauff in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2. GETTY IMAGES