

YOU TALK, I WIN: MOLINA'S MIC-DROP SEASON AT MOHUN BAGAN

Mohun Bagan's historic ISL double, led by Jose Molina's tactics and squad depth, proves resilience and substance triumph over style.

The confetti flew, and the flares lit up the stands as Mohun Bagan overcame a 0-1 deficit against Bengaluru FC to claim a rare and monumental Indian Super League (ISL) double.

As the trophy celebrations wound down, ecstatic Mohun Bagan supporters began filing out of the stadium, their chants of 'Joy Mohun Bagan!' still echoing inside.

Yet, not everyone shared the same enthusiasm. "The football was boring," murmured Mithun, a Bagan supporter. "This isn't how Mohun Bagan should play. Bengaluru played better football."

Questions about style aren't the only criticism Jose Molina faces as Mohun Bagan's head coach.

Throughout the season, rival coaches in the ISL have envied and sometimes thrown shade at Molina's success, largely due to the club's vast resources. In the last four seasons, Bagan has spent Rs. 10.11 crore in the transfer market, more than Rs 3 crore than the next best spender. Bengaluru FC head coach Gerard Zaragoza conceded it was like facing 'two teams' from Bagan in the final.

Such can be the life of a head coach at Mohun Bagan: doomed in defeat and damned even in victory.

But Molina would have cared little for the consequences of losing a final after a scrappy performance would have been far graver.

"It doesn't matter how we're playing. If we don't win, they're not happy. The most important thing is to win," Molina had said before the final.
