

» WORLD VIEW OF THE FORTNIGHT

« I love the guy, I love this game. Men's tennis needs him. But if I did that, I would have gotten 20 years. Let's be honest – Serena Williams, referring to Jannik Sinner's three-month ban over clostebol use »

« Now I really can't run any more. I have done everything I could to the best of my ability, and I have no regrets in my career – China's Su Bingtian, the first Asian runner to break the 10-second barrier, said he may have run his last 100 metres »

25th

Laureus awards saw Swedish pole vaulter Armand Duplantis and American gymnast Simone Biles clinch the top honours in Madrid. Double Olympic champion and world record holder Duplantis was voted 'Sportsman of the Year', while Biles was named 'Sportswoman of the Year' at the 25th ceremony of the awards. Spanish tennis legend Rafael Nadal, who retired from the sport last November, was given a 'Sports Icon' award.

21

Tunisian swimmer Ahmed Hafnaoui, Olympic champion in the 400m freestyle at the 2021 Games, has received a 21-month suspension for three anti-doping whereabouts failures, the Aquatic Sports Integrity Unit said. Hafnaoui withdrew from the Paris Olympics last July and August. He won gold in the 400m freestyle at the 2020 Tokyo Olympics and world titles in the 800m and 1500m in 2023 in Fukuoka. The ban will end on January 10, 2026.

ON TOP OF THE WORLD

Ju Wenjun etched her name in history by winning the 2025 FIDE Women's World Championship, defeating Tan Zhongyi 6.5–2.5. This marks the fifth time she has claimed the world title, placing her alongside legends such as Vera Menchik, Nona Gaprindashvili, and Maia Chiburdanidze, who have each won the title five times or more. ANNASHTOURMAN/FIDE