Min Woo Lee won his first PGA Tour title, holding off late charges from the chasing pack to win the Houston Open — and joining an exclusive club with the victory. Lee had led by five shots on the back nine, but surges from Gary Woodland — who went four-under on his last four holes — and Scottie Scheffler — who also had four straight birdies on the back nine — made it a closer affair. his one-shot lead, tapping home from close range on the final hole to seal his debut PGA Tour victory. The 26-year-old bent over and pumped his fists multiple times when the win was confirmed, finishing on a 20-under 260 after four rounds, breaking the tournament record by four shots.
