

with seven games remaining, the Saints beat Derby County and Huddersfield Town to the record (6), returning to the Championship after just one season in the top flight.

Mission accomplished

Records tumbled in France when Paris Saint-Germain (PSG) clinched a record-extending 13th Ligue 1 title with a 1-0 win over Angers. It was the first league title for Luis Enrique with Les Parisiens, and the club's first since 2018 without Mbappe.

Under Enrique, PSG focused on a decentralised attack and youth development, which saw players like Ibrahim Mbaye (16) and Desire Doue (19) earn game time.

Mbaye made his Ligue 1 debut at 16 years, 6 months, and 23 days, against Le Havre, becoming the youngest player at the club to do so. He later scored against Saint-Etienne in March.

Doue, on the other hand, scored and assisted 11 goals each in 42 games, after impressing for France in the 2024 Olympic Games. The cherry on the cake was his winner against Angers, which sealed the title for PSG.

But Ousmane Dembele proved to be the most clinical of all forwards, scoring a career-best 21 goals this season and finding his feet in France after falling out of favour at Barcelona.

Meanwhile, the race for the UEFA Champions League spots is heating up between Marseille (2nd), Monaco (3rd), Strasbourg (4th), and Lyon (5th), the last three separated by a point, with six games remaining.

two, Real Madrid and Barcelona, drop points at home, while Valencia, struggling in the bottom half, gave its fans plenty of reasons to smile in round 30 in the Spanish capital.

Los Che, who were hammered 1-7 by Barcelona in January, have turned the tide since, losing just one league match, and rode the same momentum to beat Los Blancos 2-1 — its first win at the Santiago Bernabeu in 17 years.
