

3rd

4th

Deadly duo: Steve Smith's SCG hundred lifted him to 13 Ashes centuries, second only to Don Bradman's 19, moving him clear of Jack Hobbs. At the other end, Travis Head marked his first ton at the venue, completing centuries at every Australian ground he has played. Together, they formed the fulcrum of Australia's march to 567 all out.

GETTYIMAGES

5th

Rare consolation: Jacob Bethell's sparkling maiden First-Class century offered England a rare Ashes silver lining in Sydney. The 22-year-old, playing just his sixth Test, struck 154 to stake a claim as a long-term No. 3, even as defeat loomed. GETTYIMAGES

FORMORE
IMAGES

6th

Man of the hour: Mitchell Starc was named Player of the Series as Australia sealed the Ashes 4-1, his impact stretching beyond 31 wickets at 19.93 to two vital half-centuries in Brisbane and Adelaide, underlining a series defined by pace, pressure, and timely runs.

GETTYIMAGES