Former BCCI president I.S. Bindra passed away in New Delhi at the age of 84, bringing an end to a long and influential chapter in Indian cricket administration. Bindra served as BCCI president from 1993 to 1996, but it was his extraordinary 36-year stint as the Punjab Cricket Association (PCA) chief, from 1978 to 2014, that defined his legacy. A diplomat and bureaucrat by training, he wielded considerable influence through an extensive network, shaping key decisions within the BCCI and later at the ICC. He also played a pivotal behind-the-scenes role at the global body, serving as Sharad Pawar's principal adviser during Pawar's tenure as ICC chairman.

Sunrisers Eastern Cape sealed its third SA20 title with a composed six-wicket win over Pretoria Capitals, overshadowing Dewald Brevis' scintillating century for the runner-up. Sent in to bat, the Capitals managed 158 for 7, riding almost entirely on Brevis' breathtaking 101 off 56 balls, an innings studded with seven sixes. He found little support, though, with only Bryce Parsons (30 off 30) and Sherfane Rutherford (17 off 11) reaching double figures. South Africa left-arm quick Marco Jansen was the standout with the ball for Sunrisers, ripping through the middle order to finish with superb figures of 3 for 10.

Luke Wright will step down as England's national selector in the latest shake-up of the backroom staff following the side's dismal Ashes campaign. The former Sussex and England all-rounder will leave his role at the end of the 2026 T20 World Cup, bringing to a close a tenure of just over three years. Wright, who played 101 white-ball internationals for England, was appointed in late 2022 and formed part of the selection panel alongside Rob Key and Brendon McCullum, with additional input from captains Ben Stokes and Harry Brook.
