

8

Carlos Alcaraz and Jannik Sinner continued their stranglehold over men's singles tennis as they shared all four Grand Slam titles between them for the second year running. The last time a men's singles Grand Slam was won by someone other than Alcaraz or Sinner was in 2023, when Novak Djokovic clinched the US Open.

11

South Korea's An Se-young won a record 11 BWF World Tour titles in 2025, the most by a women's singles badminton player in a single season. The world No. 1 clinched the BWF World Tour Finals crown by defeating China's Wang Zhiyi in the final, thereby breaking her own record of 10 titles. An reached 12 finals across 15 tournaments during the season, with her only defeat in a title match coming at the Korea Open.

14

Vaibhav Suryavanshi became the youngest player to score a T20 century after his 35-ball hundred for Rajasthan Royals against Gujarat Titans in the Indian Premier League. The Bihar prodigy's knock was also the second-fastest century in IPL history, behind only Chris Gayle's 30-ball hundred for Royal Challengers Bengaluru.

20

Novak Djokovic became the first player to win a title in 20 consecutive years after defeating Hubert Hurkacz in the final of the Geneva Open 2025. Only Jimmy Connors (109) and Roger Federer (103) have more titles than the Serb.

At 38 years and two days old, Djokovic also became the third-oldest male to win an ATP singles title, after Gael Monfils and Federer.

35

Lando Norris became the 35th Formula One Drivers' Champion after a tense season-long battle with teammate Oscar Piastri and four-time champion Max Verstappen, which culminated at the Abu Dhabi Grand Prix. Norris is the 11th Briton to win the title and the seventh-youngest to do so.

19

The world of chess saw the rise of two new stars in 2025, with India's Divya Deshmukh and Uzbekistan's Javokhir Sindarov winning the women's and men's Chess World Cups, respectively. Incidentally, both were 19 when they claimed the biggest triumphs of their careers, making them the youngest champions in their sections.