Serie A

Inter Milan further extended its lead in the title race after thrashing Sassuolo 5-0, with five different players getting their names on the scoresheet. Lautaro Martinez (right) bagged his 14th goal of the league campaign, six clear of Como's Anastasios Douvikas and AC Milan's Cristian Pulisic on the leaderboard.

The Nerazzurri now have an eight-point lead at the top of the standings over their second-placed city rival, which has played a game less.

Meanwhile, Napoli managed to eke out a 3-2 win against Genoa after Rasmus Hojlund scored a brace, including a nervy penalty to win the game in the fifth minute of added time. The result leaves the defending champion in third, one point behind Milan and three ahead of Juventus, which was held to a 2-2 draw by Lazio.

Saudi Pro League

The Saudi Pro League is facing turbulence as its biggest star, Cristiano Ronaldo (right), has accused the league of preferential treatment. Ronaldo has effectively gone on strike at Al Nassr, missing at least two matches in protest over the club's transfer strategy and squad strengthening under majority owner Saudi Public Investment Fund (PIF).

The striker is unhappy with Al Nassr's limited January recruitment compared to rivals, particularly Al Hilal, which signed high-profile players including Karim Benzema. Ronaldo missed matches against Al Riyadh and Al Ittihad, fuelling speculation over his future in Saudi Arabia.
