

Project 73, Sudoku Puzzle: The classic nine-by-nine newspaper deduction puzzle.	346
Model a puzzle with a data structure.
Project 74, Text-to-Speech Talker: Make your computer talk to you!	353
Use your operating system's text-to-speech engine.
Project 75, Three-Card Monte: The tricky fast-swapping card game that scammers play on tourists.	356
Manipulate a data structure based on random movements.
Project 76, Tic-Tac-Toe: The classic two-player board game of Xs and Os.	361
Create a data structure and helper functions.
Project 77, Tower of Hanoi: The classic disk-stacking puzzle.	365
Use stack data structures to simulate a puzzle state.
Project 78, Trick Questions: A quiz of simple questions with misleading answers.	370
Parse the user's text to recognize keywords.
Project 79, Twenty Forty-Eight: A casual tile matching game.	377
Simulate gravity to make tiles "fall" in arbitrary directions.
Project 80, Vigenère Cipher: An encryption scheme so advanced it remained unbreakable for hundreds of years until computers were invented.	385
Perform more advanced math on text.
Project 81, Water Bucket Puzzle: Obtain exactly four liters of water by filling and emptying three buckets.	390
Use string templates to generate ASCII art.
Appendix A: Tag Index	395
Appendix B: Character Map	398