

- making shallow copies of, 98–99
- setting type hints for, 195–196
- using as default arguments, 143–144
- literals, defined, 109–110
- logfiles, setting up, 75–76
- logical error, defined, 127
- looping, explained, 134
- loops
 - interrupting, 134
 - moving duplicate code into, 71
- ls command, using, 30
- `__lshift__()` numeric dunder method, 328
- `__lt__()` comparison dunder method, 337

M

- machine code vs. bytecode, 129
- macOS
 - installing tkdiff, 213
 - running Python programs on, 41
- magic comments and source file encoding, 187–188
- magic methods, defined, 120
- magic numbers, 71–73
- `main()` function, changing to override methods, 296–297
- mapping. See also objects
 - defined, 119–120
 - and filtering with list comprehensions, 175–176