Sri Lanka all-rounder Wanindu Hasaranga was handed a two-match ban by the ICC following the third T20I against Afghanistan. Hasaranga was charged with abusing on-field umpire Lyndon Hannibal, who didn't rule a high full-toss as a no-ball in the closing stages of Sri Lanka's three-run defeat. "It would be much better if he did another job," Hasaranga reportedly said in a statement. The Sri Lankan skipper was the architect of his side's 2-1 series victory, with 102 runs and four wickets in three matches.
