

matter of hitting the ground, assessing it very quickly and trying to gain some quick runs for the job.

Who motivates you during tough times?

I actually try to go back to the basics, and I do pray a lot. So, I just try to be calm and patient and just control what I can. I just pray to God to give me health and strength, and he will do the rest.

Should women's cricket also have a World Test Championship to promote the longer format?

I think that, no matter the format, the crowd loves cricket. However, I also believe that Test cricket offers a valuable experience. Many girls primarily play 50-over matches and T20s but want the opportunity to experience Test cricket. I am one of those who have always wanted to play Test cricket, to experience the long days and understand what it entails.

Test cricket is a unique form of the game that helps develop patience. While T20 is fast-paced, having Test cricket around is really beneficial. Even playing one-off games in the format provides a great experience.

How do you plan to prepare for the ODI World Cup in India next year, and how do you adapt to different formats as a senior player?

I think the preparation started with this series. We had a good opportunity to assess the conditions, become familiar with them, and understand how they might play next year.

There is still some time, but at least we now have an idea and know who we are up against. Preparation is the main focus.

I always try to separate myself, whether it is fitness, bowling, or batting skills. I focus on taking one step at a time with what I plan to do in order to stay more focused and prepared.

While Chris Gayle is the 'Universe Boss,' you call yourself the 'World Boss.' Does the tag motivate you when you take to the field?

I enjoy that name. I gave it to myself because I was into athletics (javelin throw and shot put) before taking up cricket, and I was doing well there too — making and breaking records. That's how I earned the name. When I took up cricket, I started where I had left off in athletics, and throughout my career, I have enjoyed this tag.
