

Haryana Steelers claims maiden title, but PKL's real winner is competitiveness

Before the Pune leg, a mere six points separated the second and seventh-placed teams, making this edition's league stage one of the closest in PKL history.

Saikat Chakraborty

saikat.chakraborty@thehindu.co.in Nine months after losing the Pro Kabaddi League 10 final to Puneri Paltan, the Haryana Steelers finally got its hands on the coveted trophy by defeating the Patna Pirates in the season 11 summit clash in Pune.

The packed Shree Shiv Chhatrapati Sports Complex in Balewadi roared as coach Manpreet Singh guided the Steelers to their maiden PKL title. This victory stands as a testament to the resounding success of a system dedicated to fostering athletic excellence through cutting-edge technology and unwavering support, year after year.

The JSW-owned team's triumph continues the recent trend in the PKL, where the league topper emerges as champion. It also underscores the team's consistency and desire to improve each season. The Steelers retained much of their squad from the previous season and added dynamic all-rounder Mohammadreza Chiyaneh Shadloui to their playing seven. Chiyaneh, who was with Paltan last season, not only retained his title as the best defender but also claimed the MVP award for his all-round performance.

A core of homegrown talent, including Vinay, Rahul Sethpal, Shivam Patare, Sanjay Dhull, and skipper Jaideep Dahiya – all nurtured within the Steelers' system – brought a unique cohesion to their play.

