

Neeladri Bhattacharjee
neeladri.b@thehindu.co.in Morocco captured the world's attention with a historic fourth-place finish at the FIFA World Cup 2022. This remarkable achievement has since inspired teams across various age groups and genders. Undoubtedly, Morocco is now a heavyweight in African football. It is also keen to host more big-ticket events after the FIFA Club World Cup 2022, starting with the African Cup of Nations in 2025.

Having ended a third consecutive year as the highest-ranked African country, Morocco is expected to be among the top seeds at the AFCON

This time for Morocco

Now a heavyweight in African football, Morocco is keen to host more big-ticket events, starting with the African Cup of Nations in 2025.

draw, scheduled for January. To add cherry to the cake, it was also announced as one of the hosts of the FIFA World Cup 2030, alongside Spain and Portugal (above).

Lookman, Banda win honours

Nigeria and Atalanta forward Ademola Lookman (top, left) had a year to remember, clinching the Europa League title and finishing as runner-up at AFCON 2024. He added another feather to his cap by winning the African Men's Player of the Year Award.

Zambia's Barbra Banda (above, left), who helped Orlando Pride secure its first National Women's Soccer League title and became Africa's top women's goalscorer at the Olympics, won consecutive Women's Player of the Year honours.

Morocco's success since FIFA World Cup 2022:

U-23 Men: Won the Bronze Medal at Paris 2024

U-23 Men: Won the African Cup of Nations 2023

U-20 Men: Won the UNAF U-20 Tournament (2024) after nine years

U-20 Women: Won the UNAF U-20 Women's Tournament 2024

U-17 Men: Runner-up at the U-17 Africa Cup of Nations 2023