

2013: With the final at Edgbaston reduced to 20 overs due to rain, India posted a modest total of 129. England appeared to be in control at 110/4 in the 18th over, but the Indian bowlers produced a death-bowling masterclass to secure a thrilling five-run victory. MS Dhoni made history as the first captain to win the T20 World Cup, ODI World Cup, and Champions Trophy.

2017: What promised to be a blockbuster match at The Oval turned into a nightmare for defending champion India. Facing Pakistan at The Oval, it had no answer to Fakhar Zaman's brilliance, as the opener smashed a stunning century to propel his team to 338. In reply, India crumbled to 72/6, with Mohammad Amir (in pic) wreaking havoc by dismissing Rohit Sharma, Shikhar Dhawan, and Virat Kohli within the first ten overs. India never recovered, enabling Pakistan to win its first ICC trophy in the 50-over format since the 1992 World Cup. GETTY IMAGES
