

« I've been able to use every experience and learn from it to pursue my own greatness. — Philadelphia Eagles quarterback Jalen Hurts after his team defeated Kansas City Chiefs to become the first NFL team to win three consecutive Super Bowls with a thumping 40-22 victory »

« This one was the toughest one. I think for a week I was still thinking about that match. — World number one Aryna Sabalenka says she has put her Australian Open final defeat to Madison Keys behind her »

3x15

With the aim of attracting a new audience to the sport and making matches shorter, the Badminton World Federation (BWF) is set to trial a new 3x15 scoring system in selected competitions for at least six months, starting in April this year. The existing format features 21-point, best-of-three-game matches (3x21). The BWF Council, the decision-making body of the world governing body, endorsed the 3x15 scoring system — which is already part of the Alternative Laws of Badminton — to replace the current scoring system during its meeting in Kuala Lumpur in November. The BWF added that “a proposal could go forward to the BWF Annual General Meeting in April 2026 for a decision, pending the outcome of testing and stakeholder surveying this year.”

2028

President Donald Trump is ready to take his fight against transgender athletes to the International Olympic Committee. Trump said, during a signing ceremony for an executive order aimed at banning transgender athletes from women's sports, that his administration wants the IOC to “change everything having to do with the Olympics and this absolutely ridiculous subject” ahead of the 2028 Summer Games in Los Angeles.

CHAMPION STUFF

American Grant Fisher smashed the world indoor 3000m record at the Millrose Games in New York, in a thrilling duel with Olympic 1500m champion Cole Hocker. Fisher and Hocker were locked in battle throughout the race before Fisher passed his fellow American off the final turn to clock 7 minutes 22.91 seconds, lowering Ethiopian Lamecha Girma's world mark of 7:23.81 set in 2023. AFP