26.16

In the last two IPL seasons, KKR's PowerPlay boundary percentage has been a key factor. Its title-winning campaign was fuelled by explosive starts from Phil Salt and Sunil Narine. This season, Quinton de Kock replaces Salt, aiming to deliver the same attacking intent. Both de Kock and Narine have a habit of finding the boundary every four balls in the PowerPlay, boasting a strike rate of 152.64.
