FROM FILM ROLLS AND PARK STROLLS TO EXPLORING WPL'S GROWING FOOTPRINT

Our correspondents capture the essence of WPL's Bengaluru and Lucknow legs — thrilling action on the field and captivating stories beyond it.

The Diary could never have imagined itself covering cricket. Yet, here it was, about to report on a sixth consecutive match of the Women's Premier League within the span of a week. To say the experience had been overwhelming would be an understatement. So, before making its final walk to the M. Chinnaswamy Stadium for this assignment, the Diary decided to explore the sights Bengaluru had to offer.

The first stop was a roadside shop on Indiranagar's 100 Feet Road, selling vintage film cameras. The venture was Instagram-famous, which had prompted a friend to persuade the Diary to visit Mr Azmath — the entrepreneur behind it. That the friend ultimately did not make a purchase was inconsequential. The sight of small and large point-and-shoot cameras from yesteryears —boasting brands such as Kodak, Konica, and Yashica — was enough to charm the Diary.

Possessing a film camera itself — a Yashica MF-2 from the 1980s — the Diary was keen to capture some scenes from the much-talked-about Cubbon Park. A 30-minute auto ride later, it entered the park. Within seconds, the Diary was transported back home. In Kolkata, Rabindra
