

Elite class: None has been as dangerous and clinical, in modern football, as the Egyptian talisman Mohamed Salah. AP

Reds inch closer to Premier League glory

Liverpool lifting the trophy at the end of the season now seems more plausible as it enjoys a 15-point lead at the top.

Joan Mathew Jacob
joan.mathew@thehindu.co.in Liverpool has had some prolific forwards, from Ian Rush, and Luis Suarez to Kenny Dalglish. But no one has been as dangerous and clinical, in modern football, as the Egyptian talisman Mohamed Salah.

Against Southampton on March 8, he scored a brace to power his side to a 3-1 win, taking his tally to 184 goals, making him joint fifth in the Premier League's all-time goalscoring list, level with Sergio Aguero.

Liverpool lifting the trophy at the end of the season now seems more plausible as it enjoys a 15-point lead at the top.

Second-placed Arsenal's chances of challenging the leader were further dented by