

AP

AP

his error too late, Sanchez attempted to recover, but Erling Haaland had already lobbed the ball over him to give City the lead.

Phil Foden scored City's third in the 87th minute to end any hopes of a Chelsea comeback.

Title-favourite Liverpool thumped Ipswich Town 4-1, with Cody Gakpo, Mohamed Salah and Dominik Szoboszlai all finding the net.

Mikel Arteta's Arsenal edged past Wolverhampton Wanderers courtesy of a solitary strike from Riccardo Calafiori in a match that saw red cards shown to Myles Lewis-Skelley and Joao Gomes.

Manchester United enjoyed a stroke of luck in its 1-0 win over Fulham, with Lisandro Martinez's deflected shot securing three points for Ruben Amorim's side.

High-flying Nottingham Forest, challenging for a Champions League spot next season, hit an obstacle against Bournemouth, which clinched a 5-0 win, including a hat-trick from Dango Ouattara.

It was a terrible gameweek for Tottenham Hotspur manager Ange Postecoglou, as his team succumbed to a 2-1 loss against Leicester City.

Liverpool stays top with 53 points, holding a game in hand over second-placed Arsenal, which has 47. Nottingham Forest and Manchester City occupy third and fourth with 44 and 41 points, respectively. Chelsea is sixth with 40, while Man United remains 12th with 29 points. Tottenham is languishing in 15th with 24 points.

La Liga

It was a memorable gameweek for Kylian Mbappe (above), as the Frenchman netted his first hat-trick for Real Madrid in its 3-0 win over Valladolid. Opening the scoring in the 30th minute, the France captain added to his tally in the 57th minute and in the first minute of second-half stoppage time with a well-converted penalty.

While one half of Madrid celebrated, the other remained