Pep Guardiola and Co.'s dire run of form across all competitions continued as it succumbed to a 0-2 loss against table-topper Liverpool in the high-profile Premier League clash at Anfield.

After a 0-4 thrashing at the hands of Tottenham Hotspur the previous weekend, City looked uninspired against the Reds and was blown away as Cody Gakpo and Mohamed Salah sealed the deal for the home side.

Salah recorded a goal and an assist in the same match for the 36th time in the Premier League, equalling Wayne Rooney's record. He also scored a brace to inspire his side to a 3-2 comeback win against Southampton the week before, taking his league goal tally to 11, one behind Erling Haaland.

City is now winless in seven games across all competitions, including six defeats, and have dropped to fifth, level on points with Brighton and Hove Albion in fourth. It is also the first time since 2008 that City has lost four league games in a row.

Following their 1-1 draw in the London Derby, both Arsenal and Chelsea bounced back with consecutive wins to take up the second and third spots in the table, respectively.

The Gunners put three past Nottingham Forest before thumping West Ham United 5-2 in a game where all the goals came in the first half.

Enzo Maresca led Chelsea to a 2-1 win against his former club Leicester City and followed it by thumping Aston Villa 3-0, thanks to goals from Nicolas Jackson, Enzo Fernandez and Cole Palmer.

Ruben Amorim's first match in charge of Manchester United ended in a 1-1 draw against lowly Ipswich Town. However, in the ensuing week, his tactical prowess was on show in his first league match at Old
