Leverkusen completed a comeback to beat FC Heidenheim 5-2. In its next Bundesliga fixture, the Czech striker pushed the ball over the line with his chest to help his side edge past Union Berlin. Xabi Alonso's Leverkusen is third in the table with 23 points so far this campaign.

Veteran Mario Götze got on the scoresheet as Eintracht Frankfurt narrowly beat SV Werder Bremen at home before thrashing Heidenheim 4-0 away in its next match. Omar Marmoush scored a brace in the game, taking his tally to 13 goals this season. After Leipzig dropped points, Frankfurt moved to second in the table, four points behind Bayern.

Title holder Inter Milan returned from the international break with a bang, thrashing Hellas Verona FC 5-0, with Marcus Thuram scoring a brace.

However, its following match against fourth-placed Fiorentina was suspended after midfielder Edoardo Bove collapsed on the pitch in the 17th minute. The 22-year-old was swiftly stretchered off to an ambulance and taken to hospital.

After 13 games played, Inter sits third in the table, level on 28 points with second-placed Atalanta.

Napoli edged Roma 1-0 in Claudio Ranieri's first game as Roma's manager since taking over from Ivan Juric, who was sacked following the club's home defeat to Bologna. Romelu Lukaku scored from close range to hand Napoli its ninth win of the season.
