

» SNIPPETS PARIS OLYMPICS

A laser light show took place in front of the Eiffel Tower, decorated in the Olympic rings. French president Emmanuel Macron declared open the 33rd Olympic Games in a rain-soaked Paris. "Thank you and your creative genius for this grandiose ceremony," Macron later said on social media platform, X (previously Twitter). "Thank you to the artists for this unique, magical moment. Thank you to the police and emergency services and volunteers. Thank you to all who believed ... We did it!" RITU RAJ KONWAR

PARIS 2024

The opening ceremony featured the River Seine as the main attraction. More than 10,500 athletes are competing across 32 sports at the Games, which will close on August 11. To kick off the event, fireworks were set off on the Pont d'Austerlitz bridge over the River Seine, displaying the colours of the French flag. GETTY IMAGES