

Letsile Tebogo of Botswana crosses the line to win gold in the men's 200m final, ahead of silver medallist Kenneth Bednarek of the United States. Tebogo set an African record time of 19.46 seconds and along with his teammates, also bagged silver in the men's 4x400m relay, boosting Botswana's total Olympic medal tally to four. REUTERS

Sha'Carri Richardson of the United States celebrates after winning gold in the women's 4x100m relay final. Richardson had arrived in Paris as the reigning world champion in the 100m only to fall to St. Lucia's Julien Alfred in the women's final. REUTERS