

SIMPLE DATA TYPES

The simplest types of data you can store in a program are text strings and numerical data. These cards show you how to work with these simple data types.