Blazing trail: Smriti Mandhana lit up the series with a whirlwind 63-ball 125 in the third ODI, including a 50-ball hundred — the second-fastest in Women's ODIs — finishing as the top scorer with 300 runs. Mandhana's hundred is her 13th in women's ODIs, placing her joint-second alongside Suzie Bates. SHIV

Edge-of-the-seat thriller: Australia edged India in a record-breaking series decider in Delhi, a clash that produced the highest aggregate in women's ODI history. At the heart of it was Beth Mooney, blazing to a career-best 138 — her century off just 57 balls equalling the second-fastest ever in the format at the time. She was later overtaken by Smriti Mandhana. SHIV
