

The group stage will have four groups of four players each, with the top two from each group advancing to the single-elimination playoffs. The Grand Final will be a best-of-three sets showdown.

HEARTBREAK FOR INDIA AT PUBG NATIONS CUP, AGAIN

Expectations were modest for India at the 2025 PUBG Nations Cup—a tournament equivalent to the World Cup for the PC version of PlayerUnknown's Battlegrounds (PUBG). In the 2023 edition, India's debut in the Nations Cup, they finished last.

This time, despite an improved performance in the Survival Stage—where the team, named Path of the Graveyard (comprising Kharku_47, Rupesh_Ryzn07, Shaatbhai, and XiaoYannQvQ), finished above Japan and Spain—they failed to break into the top eight, missing the finals.

With a score of 39, the Indian team finished 14th out of 16 teams in the Survival Stage, resulting in an early exit.

Meanwhile, Delwyn, Himass, Sololzy, and TanVuu led Vietnam to victory, securing the country's first-ever Nations Cup title. Vietnam has finished in the top four in its last four appearances and clinched the title with a score of 216 in the finals this time around.

South Korea, the defending champion, finished eighth with a score of 105.

In the PUBG Mobile World Cup (a separate tournament played on mobile devices), Team AxTMG from India is still in contention (at the time of writing).

DATES ANNOUNCED FOR FIFAE FINALS 2025 AND 2026

FIFAE, FIFA's digital football and esports platform, has confirmed the FIFAE Finals 2025 and 2026, scheduled for December 10-19, 2025, in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia.

The event will feature three titles:

- Rocket League
- eFootball (Mobile)
- eFootball (Console)

In the inaugural FIFAE World Cup, Saudi Arabia won the Rocket League title, Indonesia claimed the eFootball (Console) championship, and Malaysia secured the eFootball (Mobile) trophy.

The 2025 FIFAE Finals will include an open qualification period, allowing more national teams to compete for a spot.

At the FIFAE World Cup:

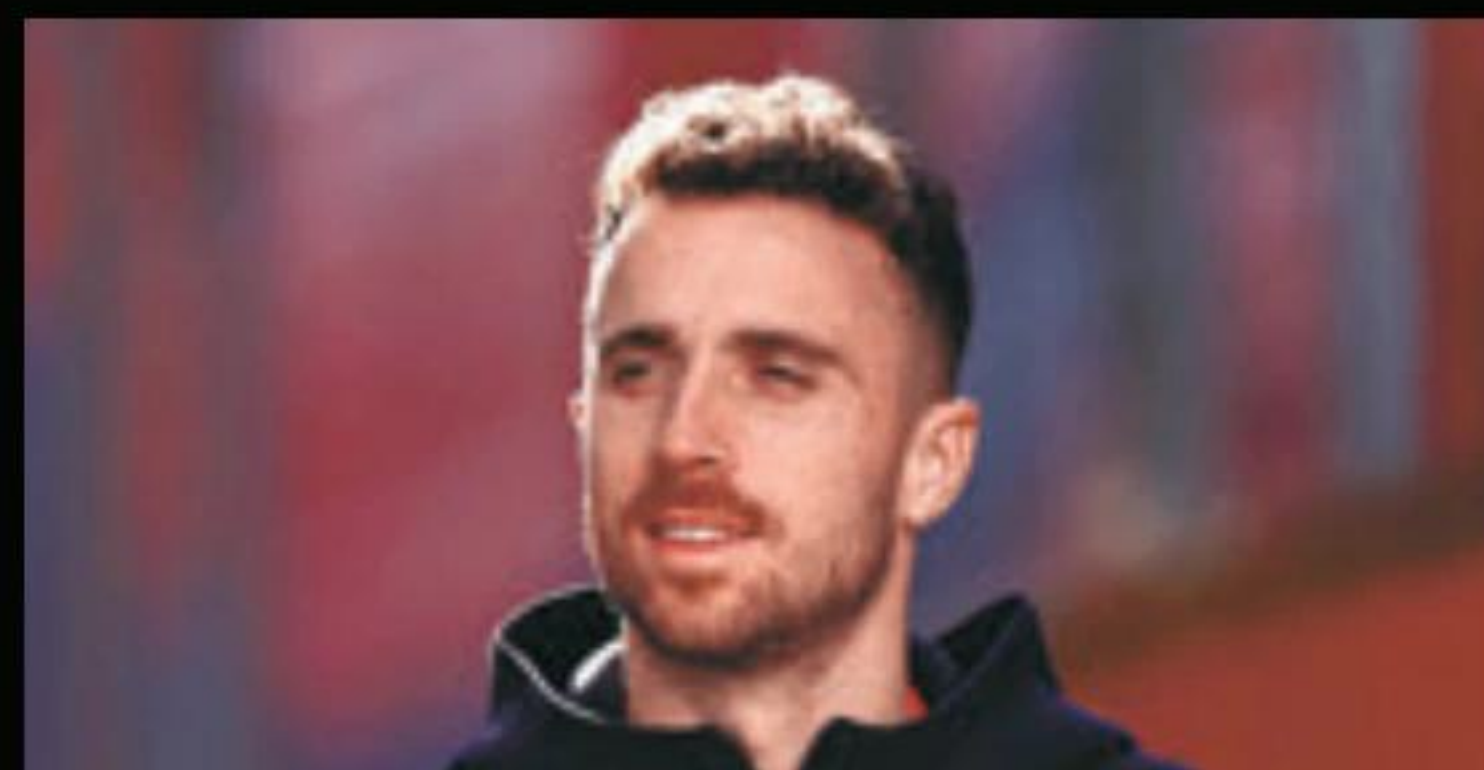

16 national teams will compete in Rocket League.

12 national teams will compete in eFootball (Mobile & Console).
