

has set out to uncover young talent from every government school in the state.

As of date 16 lakh students have registered across the state to participate in the sports competitions. Students will compete across five different sports disciplines in an organised, state-wide competition. The best performers will be selected under a special program known as 'Prerna', through which they will receive high-quality coaching, modern training, and carefully monitored nutrition plans. What sets Mashaal 2024 apart is its scale and inclusivity.

By reaching into every government-run school, it democratises access to competitive sports. The campaign ensures that talent is not lost due to geographic or socio-economic disadvantages — a critical step toward building a level playing field for all children in Bihar.

Transforming Villages into Sporting Hubs

To truly make sports a part of everyday life, the initiative goes far beyond schools and cities. It aims to make every village in Bihar a participant in this movement. The state has set a goal to build at least one sports field in each of its 8,053 gram panchayats. As of now, construction work has begun in 8,018 of these panchayats, bringing structured sports activities into even the remotest areas. Alongside this, local sports clubs are being promoted to organise competitions, training camps, and recreational events. An overwhelming 20,962 applications have already been received for the formation of these sports clubs, reflecting the community's enthusiasm and willingness to participate. This

One of the most ambitious undertakings within the Chief Minister's Sports Development Scheme is Mashaal 2024, touted as the largest sports talent search campaign in the world set out to uncover young talent from every government school in the state.

decentralised approach is essential for creating a sustainable sports culture. By embedding facilities and activities into local communities, the state is ensuring that sports is no

